

Institute for Analytical Sociology

PROGRAMME Fall 2020

All seminars will be held online on Zoom.

Please contact madelene.topfer@liu.se for Zoom link.

Time: 11.00-12.30 (unless otherwise noted).

The seminars are open to everyone and we very much hope to see you at one of the upcoming events.

SEMINARS

September 17

Stoyan V. Sgourev, ESSEC Business School - Paris
Betting on Black (Metal): Valuation arbitrage in destigmatization.

October 1

Jonas Radl, Universidad Carlos III de Madrid
The difference between saying and doing: Comparing subjective and objective measures of effort

October 8 (Time: 14:00-15:30)

Eduardo Bonilla-Silva, Duke University
What makes "systemic racism" systemic?

October 14 Wednesday (Time: 16:00-17:30)

Matthew J. Salganik, Princeton University
The fragile families challenge: Estimating the predictability of life trajectories using a scientific mass collaboration

October 22

Laura K. Nelson, Northeastern University
Leveraging the alignment between machine learning and intersectionality using word embeddings to measure intersectional experiences of the nineteenth-century U.S. South

October 29

Wojtek Przepiorka, Utrecht University
Testing sociological theories with online market data

November 5

Siegwart Lindenberg, University of Groningen
Microfoundations for the social sciences

November 12

Mario Diani, University of Trento
Multiplex and multimodal networks in collective action fields

November 19

Luis Miller, Institute of Public Goods and Policies of the Spanish National Research Council
Determinants of inequality acceptability across social contexts

November 26

Are Skeie Hermansen, University of Oslo
Immigration, inequality, and segregation in the labor market

December 3

Miranda Jessica Lubbers, Autonomous University of Barcelona
Segregation in extended social networks: The benefits and disadvantages of using the Network Scale-Up Method in research

December 10

Jason Reifler, University of Exeter
To be announced

December 17 (Time: 16:00-17:30)

Sandra González-Bailón, University of Pennsylvania
Exposure to news in the Digital Age