

Institute for Analytical Sociology

PROGRAMME Autumn 2019

The seminars are open to everyone and we very much hope to see you at one of the upcoming events.

SEMINARS

Time: 11.00-12.30, Venue: K0301

September 5

Elizabeth Korver-Glenn, University of New Mexico

Houses are everything: Value fluidity and the case of the housing market

September 12

Petri Ylikoski, University of Helsinki

Explanation, prediction, and understanding

September 19

Time: 15.30-17.00

Joscha Legewie, Harvard University

Racial bias in policing and the consequences for minority youth. Lessons from "Big data"

September 26

Xiaowen Dong, University of Oxford

Urban segregation in behaviour: A data-driven approach

October 3

Fabien Accominotti, London School of Economics and Political Science

How the reification of merit breeds inequality: Theory and experimental evidence

October 10

Johannes Wachs, RWTH Aachen University

Network approaches to the study of corruption

October 17

David Garcia, Medical University of Vienna & CSH Faculty

Collective emotions and social resilience in the digital traces after a terrorist attack

October 24

David Schoch, The University of Manchester

Leveling ties in two-mode networks

November 7

Thijs Bol, University of Amsterdam

The origins of gender equality in science funding

November 14

Moritz Marbach, ETH Zürich

The economic and political consequences of employment bans for refugees

November 21

Andrea Voyer, Stockholm University

Returning to manners as data: Computational approaches to the study of social norms

November 28

Flaminio Squazzoni, University of Milan

Can transparency undermine peer review? A computational model of scientist behavior under open peer review

December 5

Miranda Lubbers, Autonomous University of Barcelona

Segregation in broader sociality networks: The benefits and disadvantages of the Network Scale-Up Method

December 12

Thomas Grund, University College Dublin

The duality of social context and social mechanisms