‘Cosmopolitanism and Welfare Chauvinism in Sweden’

Speaker/Presenter: Max Jerneck, Affiliated researcher , PhD, Stockholm School of Economics.

Most parties have accepted the idea that because immigrants, as a group, have a relatively high level of unemployment and get more from the welfare state than what they pay in taxes, they make up a economic burden. However, Jerneck argues, through the lens of “functional finance” and a critical look at the dominating discourses, that immigrants’ contribution through taxes to the state budget is of little relevance for the Swedish economy.

Migration policy and immigrant rights in Morocco: An Intersectional-decolonial Understanding of securitarian, humanitarian, and cosmopolitan narratives

Speaker/Presenter: Teresa M. Cappiali, PhD, Vinnova MSCA-Seal of Excellence Fellow. Researcher, Raoul Wallenberg Institute of Human Rights and Humanitarian Law.

Organised by: REMESO

Description: Morocco has gradually become a central actor in the migration field. Besides the focus on how the EU and Spain pressure the country to keep unwanted (“irregular”) Moroccan and Sub-Saharan immigrants from reaching Europe, recent political and diplomatic developments show that Morocco is far from being a passive actor. Using an intersectional-decolonial lens, this paper examines three narratives about migration, of state and non-state actors (including immigrant activists), consolidated in the Global Compact for Migration —the securitarian, the humanitarian and the cosmopolitan. The article show their interconnection, and how they impact the human rights of Sub-Saharan immigrants and their rights claims in Morocco.
