

The mobilities group at TEMA T, Linköping University and the project "Governance, planning and implementation of urban micro mobility in Swedish municipalities" (SPIM) welcomes you to

Mobilities and Futures in social science

Structured writing retreat
and workshop
led by Nicola Spurling

🕒 March 7, 2024 📍 Wadströmska Villan, Södra Promenaden 122, Norrköping

Programme

09.00 - 12.00 STRUCTURED WRITING RETREAT

The day will start with a structured writing retreat where participants are invited to work with their own individual projects but with the opportunity to joint reflections on the process

12.00 - 13.00 LUNCH

13.00 - 16.00 WORKSHOP

The workshop will depart from the question "what role(s) for qualitative social scientists within the field of mobilities and futures?"

All participants are asked to bring 1-3 images (printed) representing one of your own engagements with mobilities and futures - preferably from instances of working with stakeholders outside of academia

16.00 - 17.00 WRAP UP & MINGLE

17.00 DINNER IN NORRKÖPING (Optional and on own expenses)

REGISTER BEFORE
February 23, 2024

You can either participate during the whole day or half day: in the morning (writing retreat + lunch) or afternoon (lunch + workshop)

The event is organised in connection to Nicola Spurling's lecture "Five Ways with Mobilities and Futures", on March 6, 2024 at 13.15 - 15.00, TEMCAS, Temahuset, Linköping University. The lecture is part of the international lecture series "Planning in Transition: New Concepts and Challenges for Sustainable Urban and Regional Change" with a focus on sustainable mobilities. The lectures are open for everyone.

In case of questions do not hesitate to ask Karin Edberg (karin.edberg@liu.se)

